

Head of Junior School

About the Position

Due to the upcoming retirement at the end of the year of our valued Head of Junior School, who has dedicated an incredible 28 years to our College community, we have an exciting opportunity to lead our Junior School. We are seeking a visionary and experienced educational leader to build upon this legacy, fostering Christ-centred excellence, and continuing the tradition of nurturing the growth, wellbeing and development of our young minds. Join us in shaping the future of our Junior School and making a lasting impact on the lives of our students.

The Head of Junior School at Redlands College is a pivotal role and a member of the College Executive. The Head of Junior School is responsible to the Principal for the educational leadership, pastoral care and organisational culture of the sub-school. The Head of Junior School will lead and develop, within the mission and vision of the College, the strategic priorities and plans of the sub-school.

The position is responsible for the strategic and operational effectiveness of the Junior School and is supported in this function by a Deputy and a team of Classroom Teachers, Wellbeing and Enrichment Staff.
